There is lots of fruit and clean water for all the creatures, whether they make their home in the canopy layer or on the forest floor.

One day, the forest screamed. From afar there was a sinister tale. The sun creature had lost their home. All the trees were shuddered down! Blue and yellow macaw heard this terrifying message with deep foreboding. Okapi also was scared. He felt rumbling.

Ocelot screamed with power and fury and spread through the green and beautiful trees the scared animals shuddered. Ocelot was the most strange creature in the Amazon rainforest. But something even more gigantic was threatening their world!

Machines! Cutting and spoiling!

Ocelot heard a loud voice.

"Go to high ground!" it said... "Go to high ground!"

The ^{water} ~~sped~~ ^{sped} came as the creature made their way higher and higher. Scars drove them on. Then the gigantic flood came... There were no huge mangrove trees to hold the soil in the place, so the splashing river burst its banks. The Machine was flung away! But the creatures of the Amazon rainforest were blessed by the trees.
